Common Questions

How did my property become unclaimed?

If an account remains inactive for an extended length of time, by law the company that holds the account must turn it over to the Department of Financial Services, a State of Florida government agency, as unclaimed property.

For example, if you never cashed a final paycheck from a previous job, you don't lose that money. It comes to us where you can search for and reclaim it!

How do I know if I have unclaimed property?

Our Department will try to locate a current address for you. If we are successful, we will mail you a letter informing you that we have an account in your name.

We strongly encourage you to proactively search for accounts in your name using our free website www.FLTreasureHunt.gov. If you locate an account, there is no cost to claim it.

How can I claim an account?

The process is simple! If you find an account, you can begin the claims process on our website by completing a claim form.

We might require additional identification information, such as a copy of your driver's license or proof of address. Please note that we will not share your confidential, personal information with third parties.
